

The Process of Applying to Graduate School

November 8, 2011

12:00 – 1:00 PM

Room 204 (Physics Interaction Room)

University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

Come and learn on how to be a competitive applicant for graduate school. This workshop will provide tips on how to write a competitive statement of purpose and how the graduate admission process works.

In addition you will learn about the wonderful graduate opportunities that are available at the newest campus of the University of California.

UC Merced opened September 5, 2005 as the 10th campus in the University of California system and the first American research university of the 21st century.

The campus significantly expands access to the UC system for students throughout the state, with a special mission to increase college-going rates among students in the San Joaquin Valley. It also serves as a major base of advanced research and as a stimulus to economic growth and diversification throughout the region. Situated near Yosemite National Park, the university is expected to grow rapidly, topping out at approximately 25,000 students within 30 years.
